Still not registered? What are you waiting for?

With only 3 weeks until the Canadian School of Hydrocarbon Measurement, you don't want to miss the opportunity to learn from measurement experts and industry regulators.

Why should you attend?

Here are the top five reasons to register today:

1. Attendees will be better equipped with solutions to address industry challenges such as methane reductions, leak detection, allocations, and sampling.
2. Attendees will be learning from industry experts and regulators, gaining deeper knowledge and understanding of their job and the industry.
3. Over 70% of the courses are brand new this year!
4. Keeping up with industry regulations can be daunting. CSHm provides tools to understand and manage these regulations through overviews, lectures, and hands-on presentations.
5. Professional development – through rubbing elbows with the industry's best and brightest attendees can further their industry knowledge and expand their professional circle.
